

MIIST

Point of View

Thank you for redeeming your free Miist (The Bone Grit Historeum)

~ Point of View ~

**~

We're thrilled to share it with you and your students!
Please feel free to contact us with any questions you may have:

cobblehousemedia@shaw.ca

Copyright© 2020 by CobbleHouse Literacy
All Rights Reserved.

This work or any portion thereof may not be reproduced for commercial use in any manner whatsoever without the express written permission of CobbleHouse media. If you wish to modify the work for direct use in the classroom, please feel free to do so.

CobbleHouse Media
bonegrits.com

Points of View

Who is telling the story?

First Person

One of the characters tells the story through their eyes.
This point of view uses 'I' and 'We'

Third Person Omniscient

This is a point of view where the narrator knows all the thoughts, actions, and feelings of all characters. It uses 'He', 'She' and 'They'

Third Person Limited

The narrator only knows the thoughts and feelings of one character. All characters are described using 'they', 'he', and 'she'. But, one character is closely followed throughout the story.

Points of View

Who is telling the story?

Read the following excerpts from Miist.

Root felt bumps ignite across her arms. She smiled and stepped from the trees.

*****

Hillewur Gubelyn was beyond annoyed. He had been watching a Plod attempt to paint the storehouse. He knew they were slow creatures, these Plods, but this was absurd.

*****

In the slaver's chamber, Loathsbin verged on hysteria. "They can't have just disappeared!" he shrieked at a guard.

*****

Kluk the rooster milked the sway of such a title. There was something about that long vowel that made him think he was much more important than a mere rooster.

*****

And while Root fell soundly asleep to the dance of wind and rain outside her window, Madam Mordgidika Keen stood at her own window, watching the storm as if it were hiding something terrible in its clouds.

*****

Krism watched her. Though it was obvious she would never make it, there was something about her, this strange girl with pumpkin gold hair. A few cobwebs began to clear from the deep hollows of Krism's mind.

*****

Klud was pleased with his victory.

Which Point of View is Kamilla Reid using and why?

---

---

---

---

